Walking in the heart of Dolomites - Italy

8 days, PRICE FROM € 866

There is a scenario in which the entire world envies us, where nature has created such evocative images that they seem only a fantasy: but here they are all around you, as you walk along paths at high altitude, surrounded by enormous meadows and pine woods scented with flowers, and accompanied by the whistle of marmots chasing each other.

There are mountains everywhere, filling the horizon and defying the sky, creating natural amphitheaters and rocky canyons that you thought only existed in Patagonia or the American West.

UNESCO has recognized Val di Fassa as a World Heritage Site, and the landscape in which you are immersed deserves such recognition. It is Canazei that will serve as your base for exploring the most beautiful routes in the region - and that is what you will do every day.

The flat top of the Flat Stone, the panoramic Path of Bread, and the magnificent view of the glacier Marmolada: a pilgrimage in search of the most impressive beauty, among rock giants and every shade of green.

Route

Day 1 Arrive in Canazei

Arrive with public transport or private transfer to Canazei, check-in at the accommodation and enjoy the peaceful atmosphere of the Dolomites.

Day 2 Sasso Piatto, 16 km

From Col Rodella you will walk over gravel road for a short distance. Soon after you will walk over the panorama track that takes you to the Rif. Sasso Piatto (with wet weather it can be slippery and very muddy: be careful!). You have wonderful views of the rough rocks of Sasso Piatto. From here you enter the bizar landscape between the two giants Sasso Piatto on your right and the Sasso Lungo on your left. It resembles a lunar landscape. At Rif. Vicenza you go for 550 meters steep down to the valley station of the Sasso Lungo lift. You could also take the lift down if you are tired or your knees hurt. From here you walk back to the Col Rodella using mostly gravel roads. It is a long but beautiful walk.

Distance: 16 km

Elevation gain: +810/-850 m

Day 3 Catinaccio walk, 14 km

This ring walk coasts the imposing Catinaccio group: you walk over tracks and gravel roads, passing Malga Vael and Roda di Vael hut before starting to climb up to the Zigolade Pass. You then start your descent, flanking Forcella di Davoi and Cima Catinaccio with their jagged peaks. You pass hut Preuss and Gardeccia, where you may want to stop and reward yourself with a local snack before continuing to your starting point in Catinaccio.

Distance: 14 km

Elevation gain: +777/-781 m

Day 4 From Passo della Sella to Passo Gardena, 13 km

From the Col Rodella you walk over gravel roads and tracks, seeing the steep Sasso Piatto and Sasso Lungo on your left. You come along the Sella Pass and then walk on to the Gruppo del Sella on the right, beautiful and imposing it as it comes closer and closer. The views are stunning in walking direction. Finally you reach Passo Gardena, where your hut is.

Distance: 13 km

Elevation gain: +440/-745 m

Day 5 Val Gardena round tour from Frara, 7,5 km

From the Dantercepies cable car you walk the first part through Selva until you reach the entrance of the Puez Geisler National Park. You walk till a charming chapel where a steep track takes you through lush forest. After about 2 km you leave the forest and enter open rocky terrain where you have perfect conditions for spotting any wildlife. Then it's about 3 km's to the pass where you see the typically rough lightgrey Dolomite rock formations. Besides that you have a stunning panorama view. From the pass it's ca. 1 hour back to the Grödner Joch where you're back at the Rifugio Frara.

Distance: 7,5 km

Elevation gain: +845/-360 m

Day 6 From Passo Gardena to Passo Campolongo, 12,5km

From Passo Gardena the track goes up until you walk pretty much under the Gruppo del Sella. In Val de Mesdi you cross a small river and the path goes down, sometimes quite steep. When you're down in the valley you follow a gravel road until Crep de Sella. From here you take a beautiful track that goes through spectacular rock formations. When you reach the Kaiserhütte you only have to follow the gravel road until you're at the Passo Campolongo.

Distance: 12,5 km

Elevation gain: +775/-1020 m
